

THEATRE ROYAL. COVENT-GARDEN

*** The PROPRIETORS are extremely gratified to inform the Publick, that the New Method of LIGHTING and VENTILATING the Theatre, has succeeded even beyond their most sanguine expectations. The GRAND and MAGNIFICENT CHANDELIER from the Centre, sheds its soft and brilliant Lustre without dazzling the Eye of the Spectator; and the VENTILATION keeps the House in a cool and refreshing Temperature.

This present WEDNESDAY, Oct. 22. 1817, will be acted the Play of
